Automatically collected information

Our web servers may automatically collect technical information that is not personally identifiable, such as your internet browser type. This information is solely for aggregation purposes which we use to help improve the content of our site. As with most other Internet sites, our web servers utilize "cookies" to track a user's activity within our site as well as record the IP address of each visitor to this site. A cookie is a small data file that is stored on your computer. A cookie contains a unique identifying feature that allows our computer to recognize you when you return to the World Vision site. The recorded IP address tells us which domain you visited from (for instance, yahoo.com), but not your email address or other private and personal information. We use the information we record to help diagnose problems with our servers, to administer this website more effectively, and to gather broad demographic information about what countries and domains our visitors come from and their behavior on our site. We sometimes also use third-party service providers to serve advertisements (banners, video or text ads) on our behalf across the Internet. These third parties may collect non-personally identifiable information about your interaction with us. This Privacy Policy does not cover the collection methods or use of the information collected by these vendors, as they have their own privacy policies and may be members of the Network Advertising Initiative ("NAI"). In the alternative, if you wish to opt out of this type of data collection, you can disable cookies in your web browser. Please note that disabling cookies may diminish the experience of the websites you visit. Our sites may contain links to other sites and entities not controlled by Strong Villages Inc. This is for your convenience. We are not responsible for the content of these sites and suggest you review their respective distinct policies. This Privacy Policy is subject to change without notice. It is your responsibility to ensure you are aware of the current policy. If you do not agree with the policy, do not use the site.
